D E D I C A T I O N

Since she came to B. F. Grady School seventeen years ago, she has always had a sincere, personal interest in each student. Surely she has been more than a teacher or friend; she has been like a mother to her students in guiding and assisting them. Her smiling and teasing in math class make it pleasant and alive.

With sincere gratitude, the Class of 1960 gladly dedicates this annual to Mrs. Alice G. Davis.

All these years we've come here to be schooled.
Together, we've monkeyed, we've laughed, we've fooled.

FOREWORD

A lot we've labored
But yet, happy and

studied, and learned,
joyful are the memories

we've earned:

Basketball, baseball, Parties and picnics, we

and dances galore,
could even name more,

Our teachers,
Who've made

like parents, who've helped us along.
us do right, when we might've done wrong,

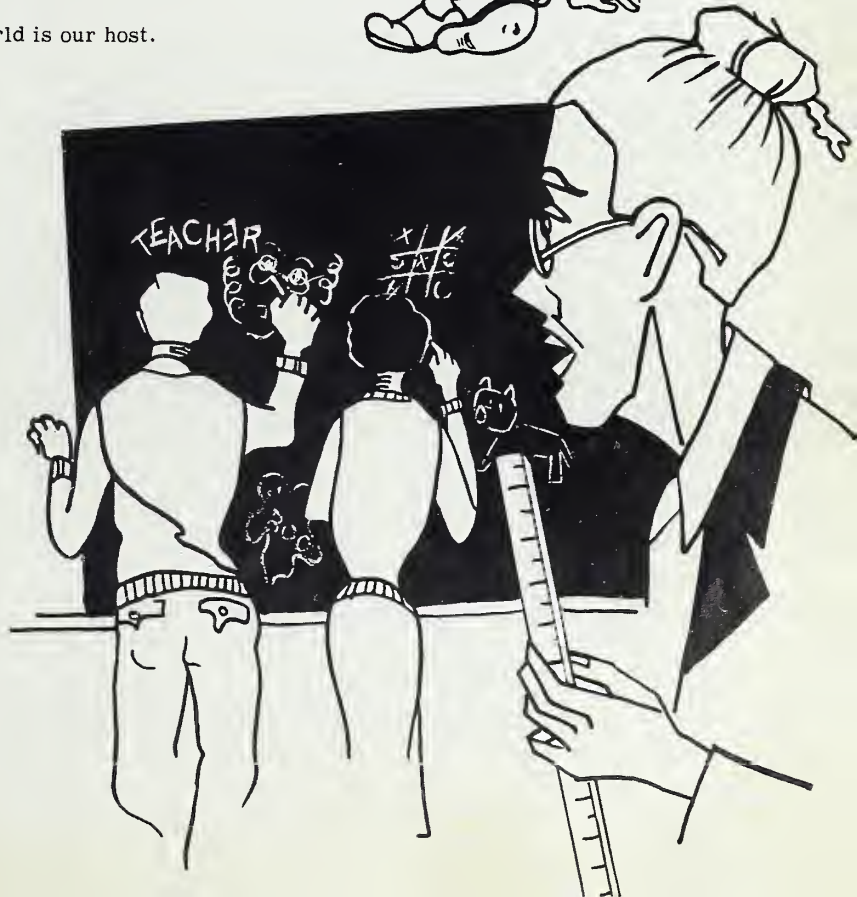

The friends we've made, we'll remember the most

After graduation,

when the world is our host.

These memories will be shared by the '60 Senior team.

That's why we chose "Fun 'n School"
for our theme.

CLASS HISTORY

YOU ARE THERE, SENIORS

... when the summer of 1956 ends and a bunch of fidgeting, noisy, out-of-place looking Freshmen (that's us) step out of the various school buses. The awkward babies gather in the halls to reminisce over the vacation. The bell rings; they scamper to find their home rooms. There, they find Mrs. Davis and Mr. Ralph Britt holding the reins which will guide them in the right ruts during the year.

It is a few days later and officers are being elected. Quiet! Let's hear who they are: Presidents, Thomas Stroud, Jo Ann Gresham; Vice-Presidents, Alicia Smith, Yvonne Herring; Secretaries, Rose Bishop, Joan Walker; Treasurers, D. L. Scott, Linda Smith; Reporters, Hyacinth Ann Herring, Ben Scott Turner.

A few weeks have passed. The FFA and FHA are initiating their new members. Ha! Ha! There goes one of the boys garbed in a dress, boots, and lipstick.

Spring comes. The somewhat naturalized Freshmen go to the opening of Seymour-Johnson Airfield.

The final bell rings for the year and the know-it-all Freshmen "quituate" schoolwork for the summer.

YOU ARE THERE, SENIORS

... when the beach trips come to a halt and the first bell sounds to begin a new school year. The new Sophomore class (that's us again) is now well-adjusted to high school. They find waiting in their home rooms Mrs. Edna Ward and Miss Mary Anna Grady. They elect the following officers: Presidents, Ben Turner, W. G. Simmons; Vice-Presidents, Rose Bishop, Kenneth Reardon; Secretaries, Bobbie Herring, Joan Walker; Treasurers, Brenda Grady, D. L. Scott; Parliamentarians, Melvin Williams, Tom Stroud; Reporters, Jack Hill, Jo Ann Gresham; Devotional Chairman, Judy Rouse.

The year lags on. Most of the boys get their driver's license--oh, does that make the Sophomore girls happy? In the spring, some become Beta Club members. They are Rhoda Booth, Clarissa Dail, Clarence Harper, Bobbie Herring, Kenneth Reardon, W. G. Simmons, Alicia Smith, Ben Turner, and Melvin Williams.

The class has a picnic at the cliffs. Boy, aren't those hot-dogs good?

At last, the sixth column on their report cards is filled in.

The "have-been" Sophomores, "will-be" Juniors, forget English and algebra, and head for the tobacco patches. A summer of manual labor, going to the beach and building up their little "black" books follows.

YOU ARE THERE, SENIORS

... when again they gather at the large brick school. This time however, the fifty-four remaining meet in the middle room on third floor. They are now full-fledged Juniors. They whisper loudly and stare at the new teacher, Mr. Coy W. Whitson, who is their homeroom sponsor.

The class assumes a more serious attitude. They now have a goal; they must pay for the Junior-Senior Banquet. Their new class officers are President, Thomas Stroud; Vice-President, Ben Turner; Secretary, Bobbie Herring; Treasurer, Melvin Williams; Reporter, Brenda Grady.

Before the Juniors can get their books opened good, Mr. Blackwell pops in with a glitter in his eye and salesmanship in his voice, and he gets an order from the class for the prettiest rings you ever saw--fire-fly blue with an encrusted "G".

They get their books opened, but before they can get their pencils sharpened, Mr. Gunn bounces in with an armful of magazines. He brags on B. F. Grady, arouses the would-be salesmen's enthusiasm, crams their hands full of magazine folders, and the campaign is on. Bobbie Herring is captain of the winning team; Ben Turner, captain of the ill-fated, losing team. Grudgingly, a party is planned at Griffin's in Goldsboro. Top magazine salesmen are Jack Hill, D. L. Scott, W. G. Simmons, Brenda Grady and Ben Turner who received watches.

The class has a real adventure--gathering corn.

It is November now and the Juniors are rehearsing their class play. Let's slip in and see what it's all about. The title is "The Black Ghost." Martha Rogers, Joan Walker, Judy Rouse, Alicia Smith, Ben Turner, Kenneth Reardon, Douglas Turner, Trula Howard, Brenda Grady, and Paul Williams are the stars of the great production. It doesn't quite make Broadway.

The holidays are over and the Juniors are planning for the Junior-Senior Banquet. Plans are almost complete. It is going to be in . . .

This is the night everyone has waited for all year. It is April, and Juniors, Seniors, and teachers from B. F. Grady are packed in the Terrace Room of the Goldsboro Hotel. The girls sit very precisely in their party dresses while the boys are red-faced from their tight collars. It is hot, but everyone sits attentively (for manner's sake) while Judge David Henderson speaks. After that steak dinner several boys are seen slyly increasing their belts to another notch. At midnight, the banquet is over. The socialites depart with tired feet but with "A Song in Their Hearts," the theme of the banquet.

May has rolled in. It is graduation night. Juniors look at the departing Seniors with envy, but then they realize that next year they'll be Seniors; and the thought that only one more year of "Fun 'n School" remains saddens them a little.

WE ARE HERE, SENIORS

... when vacation days are over and forty-eight of us enter school, now fully qualified to call ourselves Seniors! We begin the year by electing officers headed by our President, Melvin Williams. We are very happy to have Miss Mary Anna Grady and Mr. Edgar Wells for our sponsors in our final year. We elect our annual staff and they begin work on a new edition of The Overflow. (Don't you think they did a good job?)

We have two unforgettable days of selling ads. We begin our "iceberg" dances and our bake sales. Other fund-raising campaigns are carried on simultaneously.

The graduation spirit becomes evident. We choose our mascots, order calling cards and invitations, plan our Washington-New York class trip. We prepare for after graduation, for our life ahead. But some way, deep in our hearts we know that these passing days are our happiest. We know that there will never be any fun days like "Fun'n School" days.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

PROPHECY

And now planet to planet the B. F. G. Network presents MELVIN WILLIAMS WITH THE NEWS!

Good Evening, everybody! Today, May 20, 2000 A. D., we are coming to you from the planet Jupiter where we are visiting the 40th Annual Reunion of the 1960 Graduating Class of B. F. Grady High School. The reunion is being held at the Jupitsonian-Universal Hotel. Now that these "grads" have children and grandchildren, they look quite a bit different than in 1960. However, they still have the same love for each other and for a good time.

As we begin our broadcast, several class members are already on the scene reminiscing and looking around the planet.

The first to arrive was Lewis Ray Daniels, now a wealthy jet manufacturer. Lewis's slogan: "A Daniels' jet is the best you can get."

Not far behind was Martha Rogers, who is a test driver for those new Ford-O-Jets.

Larry Page and Clarence Harper, whose ambitions had always been to be rocket pilots, landed and said they love flying for a career.

Brenda Grady, Clara Dail, and Carole Stroud who are nurses, arrived with plenty of ammonia for anyone who might become airsick during the flight.

Tom Stroud, a District Forest Ranger, landed and said he hoped to find out what types of trees are grown on Jupiter.

Barber Donald Ray Smith arrived very willing to give anyone a haircut for $2.50.

Pro basketball coach, Jack Hill, flew in. Jack said he would like to have a few of these 7-footers from Jupiter on his team.

Doctor Ben Turner and his secretary, Joan Walker, landed in Ben's spacemobile.

Artist Douglas Hill rushed in. He said he just couldn't wait to paint some of the scenery on this planet.

And now, here comes an Air Force BFG-601 bringing Cols. Melvin Harper and Keith Smith from their stations on the moon.

Jo Ann Gresham, host on the TV Show "Personality Plus" is arriving. She plans to do several shows on the personalities of Jupitsonian girls.

Reverend Bobby Mercer lands planning to begin a new campaign.

Bobbie Herring, a medical technologist, and Linda Lou Smith, an X-ray technician, are bringing their medical equipment with them. They plan to study health conditions on Jupiter.

Yvonne Herring Burchfield and her husband are arriving. They plan to make this "a second honeymoon."

Marine officer, Virgil Malpass, is landing in his private Marine-Cruiser. He says, "My new Cruiser will travel on land, sea or in the air."

The next to arrive are Kenneth Reardon, Billy Joe Ivey, Clifton Herring, and Jimmy Quinn. They insisted on having the reunion here so they might study the farming techniques and labor-saving devices used on Jupiter.

And here comes Linda Outlaw with her beautician equipment, just in case someone would like a new hair-do.

Engineers Douglas Turner and Herman Sutton plan for building bridges on Jupiter. Big bridge contracts are being let next week and they plan to bid on them.

"Housekeeping is fun," say Barbara Stroud, Trula Howard, Kathleen Rouse and Marie Jones, who bring their husbands and grandchildren, but they look delighted to get away from their house-keeping chores for the weekend.

Lynn Sutton, who is now vice-president of Dupont, says he plans to search for new fibers on Jupiter.

Secretaries, Bertha Sheppard, Rhoda Booth, and Judy Rouse say they are looking forward to a vacation after pounding the typewriter keys for four years.

Businessman, D. L. Scott, is hard to recognize as he steps off his atomic cruiser with a king-size cigar in his mouth.

Capt. Jo Ann Outlaw of the U.S. Air Force says that she will be stationed here on Jupiter for the next two years.

Telephone operators, Joyce Ann Williamson, and Jean Outlaw Kornegay, say they are not tired of talking even though they admit it is strenuous, taking orders from the moon, Jupiter, and other planets.

Alicia Smith, now a professor at East Carolina College, says she is going to explore education methods here, in hopes that she can use some of the methods in her classes.

Airline stewardess, Clarissa Dail, says she enjoys flying on the Earth-Jupiter route more than any other.

Douglas Hardison and Hugh Outlaw say they have retired after being successful race drivers for 35 years.

W. G. Simmons, agricultural researcher at State College, hopes to get some samples of the soil and plants on Jupiter.

Nancy Tyndall is now arriving with the box lunches she has brought from her Pleasant Grove Restaurant.

Robert Lee Outlaw is the last to arrive. He says he sold so much fuel from his station to members of the class, that he barely had enough left to fill his own jet.

Many hours will be spent in refreshing our memories on our high school days. The main topic of conversation is "My, how times have changed since we were graduated from B.F. Grady in 1960!"

THANK YOU, PARENTS!!

Our parents share our heartaches with sympathy and our happiness with joy. They understand our problems and encourage, teach, and influence us. Most of all, they give us their love.

It is with much pleasure that we acknowledge all that they have done for us by dedicating to them this page of appreciation.

guide —
As I try to think of something to write, my mind is as blank as the back of my hand.
As is usual, I'll start by complimenting
you. You are sweet; you are nice; you are cute; you are all of the good things I can think of. How's that for a beginning? Doesn't sound very sincere, does it?

Seriously though, your friendship has meant as ~~very great~~ ^{more} than I'll dare put in this annual. You are truly a very sweet kid.

When I leave B.F. Grady, I'll take a lot of ^{of your} memories along with me. I won't bother to mess up your annual by naming them, except maybe the "ditch" affair and all the ballgames at which we talked about everything.
When I get to Carolina you can write to me once in a while even though you are going steady - (I hate those 2 words.)
